Five M3A1 Stuart – Private collection, Guadalcanal (Solomon Islands)

These tanks are all battlefield relics from Guadalcanal, the owner will do some preservation work on them soon

Mal Kuper, August 2014

M3A1 Stuart – Somewhere on Guadalcanal (Solomon Islands)

The Marines fought with earlier production Stuarts on Guad. Those later ones might have served in other campaigns, but we suspect they were brought to the island for training, and may have been dumped there when Marine or Army units re-equipped with M5A1s

M3A1 Stuart – Arundel Island, New Georgia Islands (Solomon Islands)

Assigned to the US Marine Corps and manned by Marines. Landed on Arundel Island. This tank supported US Army 27th Infantry during an assault on 17 September 1943. This was one of two tanks knocked out by camouflaged Japanese 37mm anti-tank guns. The tank's crew escaped the disabled tanks, but the Advance was blunted. The following day, the attack was resumed with eleven tanks, in two waves supporting each other, and with supporting infantry. This assault pinned down and overwhelmed the Japanese (Pacifi Wrecks website)

M3 Stuart upper hull and turret – Australian War Memorial Museum, Canberra (Australia)

New Guinea combat veteran, Serial Number 2033. First arrived at Milne Bay, then transported to Buna. One of seven M3 Stuarts of the 2/6th Armoured Regiment including this tank were supporting troops of the 2/9th Infantry Battalion at Cape Endaiaadere. On December 18, 1942 this tank bellied on a log during first Allied tank operation in Papua during the Buna campaign. Japanese troops were able to light a fire underneath the tank disabling it, but the crew were able to escape unharmed. Recovered from the Buna battlefield during the middle of 1973, and was transported to Port Moresby by barge. Next, shipped to Australia to the Australian War Memorial Second World War Hall. ### M3A1 Stuart turret – Krasnodar Museum, Krasnodar Krai (Russia)

In February, 1943, the Soviet Naval Infantry landed in Malaya Zemlya, near Novorossiysk, during the Battle of Caucasus. The Soviet Forces lost 18 of their 30 Stuart tanks during the landing. This turret has been recovered in 2006 and is now displayed in Krasnodar (<http://azur.ru/ozereika/news.php?view=1445>)

Any M3 or M3A1 Stuart that I forgot...

This document is a compilation of photos published on the web. I would like to thank especially Neil Baumgardner who has been helpful to locate the Stuarts in the USA, Trevor Larkum (his website "preservedtanks.com" lists a great number of Stuarts all around the world), Rafał Białecki, who deserved a great part of the job on this document and also the people who took these photos and put them on their websites, or sent them to me, and those who helped me doing these lists (particularly people of the AFV News Discussion Board). For any question, you can email me at soldat\_ryan@hotmail.com
